USER STORIES

As an employer
I want to see my future employee's portfolio, skills and problem solving capabilities demostrated on their website
So that I can make an informed decision and be confident I'm hiring the right person for the role.

As a developer
I want to see other developers' websites with links to their projects and social media,
So that I can get inspired by their work and network with them.